BRIEF HISTORY

Around the year 1910 a profound reform of the instruction in American Catholic schools began. Inspired by Catholic University professor Thomas Shields, Mrs. Justine Bayard Ward (1879–1975) devised a method of musical formation conceived as a part of the total system of instruction, integrating it into the school curriculum instead of marginalizing it. In the classroom, each child receives the opportunity for musical training, which is not restricted to the gifted. The instruction is adapted to the physical, psychological, and mental development of the child and thus aids in the process of harmonious and comprehensive growth.

Proceeding from the familiar to the relatively unfamiliar, an essential methodological principle of the Ward Method is the motivation of children to discover for themselves, thereby also developing their own critical and aesthetic sense. The entire repertory learned, whether popular or classical, is analyzed, and the children are encouraged to discover and express their own opinions. A simple folksong, a Gregorian melody, a Bach choral, a theme of Mozart or Beethoven, a little canon for two or three voices, or even a collective composition created by the youngsters themselves in the classroom — all these are excellent opportunities to discover and experience music.

The International Center for Ward Method Studies is offering the following courses in MUSIC PAEDAGOGY for Elementary School or Home Schooling

June 22–26, 2015

All courses meet for eight hours daily, as indicated.

Depending upon enrollment, a Ward Method course may be offered as a three-credit course and/or workshop course. Teachers and students preparing to teach music may register to receive three academic credits for any of the Ward courses, such as MUS 543-01 or MUS 547-01, at $2,900 per course, for which oral and written examinations are required. Ward Method courses MUS 543A-01 and MUS 543B-01 are offered on a rotational basis.

Prerequisite: Basic knowledge of music theory, including tonic sol-fa system. The requirement is fulfilled if the applicant has earned a music diploma or successfully completed at least two semesters of music theory, including ear training, sight singing, melodic and harmonic dictation, etc.

With the consent of the instructor, workshop students interested chiefly in personal enrichment or home school activity may attend Ward Method courses by registering for MUS 543W-01 or MUS 547W-01 on a noncredit workshop study course basis at a cost of $600. After satisfactory accomplishment in the MUS/MUS-W Ward course, a testimonial of attendance and successful completion can be issued, upon request.

For information on the possible availability of limited scholarship assistance, email the director of the Ward Center, Rev. Robert A. Skeris, at skeris@cu.edu.
